

081. Chapter 6 verses 20-21

Lectures by Swami Sarvapriyananda

VERSE 6.20

| 6.20-23

यत्रोपरमते चित्तं निरुद्धं योगसेवया |
यत्र चैवात्मनात्मानं पश्यन्नात्मनि तुष्यति ||20||

yatroparamate cittam
niruddham yogasevayā |
yatra caivātmanātmānam
paśyannātmani tuṣyati ||

When the mind (citta), restrained by the practice of yoga (yoga), comes to rest, and when, seeing the self (ātman) by means of the self (ātman), one finds satisfaction in the self (ātman).

VERSE 6.21

सुखमात्यन्तिकं यत्तद्बुद्धिग्राह्यमतीन्द्रियम् ।
वेत्ति यत्र न चैवायं स्थितश्चलति तत्त्वतः ॥२१॥ sukhamātyantikam yattad

buddhigrāhyamatīndriyam |
veti yatra na caivāyam
sthitaścalati tattvataḥ ||

- ◆ sukham – happiness; ātyantikam – infinite/supreme; yat – which; tat – that;
- ◆ buddhi-grāhyam – grasped by the intellect; atīndriyam – beyond the senses;
- ◆ veti – knows; yatra – where; na ca eva – and never; ayam – this (Yogi);
- ◆ sthitaḥ – established; calati – moves/wavers; tattvataḥ – from the Truth;

When one experiences that ultimate happiness which is comprehensible by the intellect (buddhi) and transcends the senses, being established in that truth (tattva), one does not deviate from it.
